Welcome to this month's eNews

Welcome to this month's news from One Nucleus. It is with great pleasure that I am able to highlight so many things that the small but hardworking team at One Nucleus have delivered thus far in Q1 2024, much of which culminated in great outcomes since the last issue. In this issue, you'll find reviews of some key activities, including reflections on the Building Life Science Adventures (BLSA) online conference; the One Nucleus Annual Awards; being with our network at BIO-Europe Spring; preparing for the Boston Bootcamp; publication of the Genesis Review and more.

Life is a Rollercoaster!

There are many ups and downs in life we all face, and that includes career challenges, opportunities, and choices. The BLSA online conference delivers eight expert panel discussions across two days. Delving into topics such as inclusion and diversity, recruitment trends, whether qualifications are worth it, and the role of social media in developing not just great jobs in life sciences but great careers. Monalisa Breazu, Learning & Development Administrator, summarises the key discussion points from the event.

Everyone's a Winner?

The evening of 21 March saw the One Nucleus Annual Awards gala dinner in London. A fully booked celebratory event achieved the goals set out at its inception, which were to recognise excellence across the One Nucleus ecosystem, ensure all finalists felt like winners, deliver a true networking opportunity, and have an entertaining experience suitable of recognising success. Tony Jones, CEO, reports on the event and profiles those that took the main trophy in their categories.

Whoever's in New England...

The song lyrics tell us that whoever's in NE spends a lot of time in Massachusetts, and business must be booming. 22-25 April will see the One Nucleus Boston Bootcamp take place across the city. The winners will spend three days gaining insights into the MA ecosystem and the practicalities of operating in, with, and through what most consider to be the top Life Science cluster in the world. Alicia Gailliez, Business Development Manager, profiles the competition winners and what insights they'll be seeking to bring back to the wider network at ON Helix 2024.

BARCELONA!

Perhaps fitting that it is also the title of one of the most renowned musical collaborations of all time and also the host city of Europe's leading Spring bio-partnering event. Given that we work in an industry reliant upon innovation and collaboration, BIO-Europe Spring provided the ideal platform to meet peers and stimulate further collaboration. It also served as a base to launch our Genesis Review and showcase our network. Jasmin Bannister, Business Development Manager, shares her experience of attending the event as a relative newbie, highlighting the hot topics and how to maximise the returns and wellbeing when deciding to attend.

California Dreamin'

As June approaches, many of the global Life Sciences sector, including One Nucleus members, are preparing for their attendance at the BIO International Convention, this year in San Diego 3-6 June. One Nucleus, with collaborators and supporters, aims to again enable our network to maximise their benefits of attending through the delivery of satellite sessions, accessing discounted delegate rates, supporting the UK Pavilion presence, securing discounted airport transfer/flights/hotels packages, and more.

As you can see, it's been a really busy but exciting and productive time for the almost 10 FTE team at One Nucleus to start 2024. Our members have been busy too, of course, and as ever, you can keep up with the news via our website, LinkedIn or X pages. The News stream contains numerous updates from our community. Enjoy the read!
