One Nucleus Training Courses

Stay tuned for an exciting year ahead! One Nucleus strives to help support life science companies and members to build the best teams and one of the ways in which we do this is by providing and developing a series of training courses to enable skills development.

Take a look at our upcoming training courses, and make sure to follow us on X and Linked-In. For more information about our in-house course offering, please contact training@onenucleus.com.

New Opportunity - Queen Mary University Internship Scheme

Queen Mary is recognised as the most inclusive Russell Group university in the UK and its aim is for all students to leave university in graduate-level employment. Its internships programme is one of its key initiatives, helping to ensure students' future success. They can also act as a talent pipeline for hiring graduate-level roles and provide support for specific projects. This scheme can help SMEs and charities with funding, where applicable, and there is lots of flexibility with timing

(including start date, duration, and PT/FT). Get in touch directly for more information.
